piece of jewelry, in a woman's estimation, is the ring. The ancients honored it and the moderns have many cherished memories connected with it.

The designers of the rings we are showing have produced something beyond the ordinary. Sentiment may have aided artistic conception and even the artisan has warmed up to his work. Every part of the making has been carefully done and the finished article is a work of art.

Our modest prices are aids to the possession of these beautiful rings.

CHARLES A. DANA,

Greatest of American Journalists, Is Dead.

BRILLIANT CAREER ENDED.

Absolute Accuracy Was His Motto in Every Instance.

BEGAN ON A VERY SMALL SALARY

From the First His Great Ability Was Plainly Apparent.

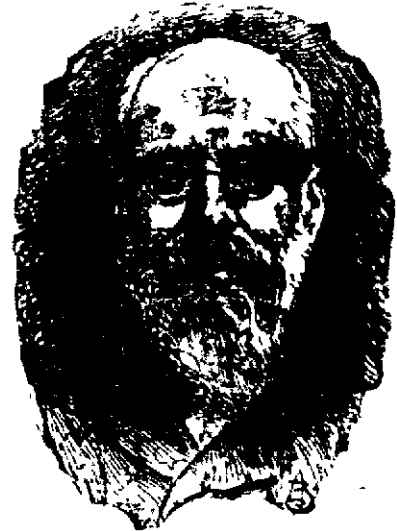

FOR HORSES HE HAD A PASSION.

In His Private Life He Was a Most Charming Man to Meet, and Loved Fun and Reveled in Humorous Anecdotes.

New York, Oct. 18.—Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, died at his home in Glen Cove, L. I., at 1:20 p. m. Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Dana's death had been expected for several hours and his family and physicians were at his bedside when the end came.

His condition had been such for several months that the members of his family had kept themselves in constant readiness to go to his bedside at any moment.

On Saturday morning he had a relapse, and it was apparent that recovery was impossible. Several times, however, he rallied but toward night began to sink.

During the night there were feeble rallies but they did not last long. It was seen that the end was but a few hours off and his attendants remained almost constantly at his bedside.

The extreme heat of Saturday and Friday had much to do with hastening death. On Friday Mr. Dana showed signs of distress and everything possible was done to relieve him.

He had been weakened by his long illness and during the summer was several times thought to be on the verge of a fatal collapse, but each time rallied.

He did not improve much with the coming cooler weather, and the sinking spells became more frequent. On Friday Mr. Dana was able to take only the lightest nourishment, and this condition continued.

Paul Dana and his sisters, Mrs. Draper Mrs. Underhill and Mrs. Branban, were at his home on Saturday morning and were warned to remain there. They were at the bedside when death came.

The cause of Mr. Dana's death was cirrhosis of the liver. On June 9 he was at his office apparently strong and healthy. The next day he was taken ill and he never afterward visited New York. He was 78 years old. Preparations for the burial have not yet been completed.

Biography.

Charles Anderson Dana was born in Hinsdale, N. H., Aug. 8, 1819, and entered Harvard college at the age of 16. But just as he was entering the junior year his eyes became weak and he was compelled to leave school, and engaged in the mercantile business in Buffalo with a relative.

He next became associated with social reform and joined the Brook Farm community. Soon realizing that the experiment was a failure, he gave it up. But while there he did his first newspaper work as editor of the Harbinger.

Being in France during the revolution of 1848, he wrote a series of letters for the New York Tribune which made him famous. Soon thereafter he became managing editor of the Tribune and developed into the greatest of American journalists.

In 1851 he retired from the Tribune and became assistant secretary of war. Much of the time he was with General Grant in the west. He was several times under fire, showing great coolness and courage. His executive capacity was never more superbly revealed than when as the representative of the war department, he was engaged in forwarding Grant's gigantic military schemes.

After the war a company was organized to create and publish a great Republican newspaper in Chicago, and Mr. Dana was offered the editorship, and a small interest in it was given to him. He sold out his interest, receiving therefor some $7,000, and that was the first time in his life that he found himself possessed of any considerable sum of money.

A friend advised him to invest it in a house in New York, which he did, and other of his old time Republican friends, notably Colonel Fred A. Conkling, brother of Roscoe Conkling, subscribed a sum sufficient to buy for Mr. Dana the New York Sun, which was to be published as a low priced Republican paper.

Mr. Dana took charge on the 1st of January, 1868, the paper then having about 60,000 circulation, and his conspicuous career began with that issue of the paper. He called about him a competent staff, and in less than two years had in many respects revolutionized journalistic methods.

Under Mr. Dana's management the paper secured at one time as high a circulation as 150,000 and its Sunday edition exceeded more than that. Mr. Dana's idea was that the editorial page in the paper should be made fully as attractive as the news pages. The Sun, under his active management, seldom was historically or scientifically inadequate.

In his spare moments he mastered the Icelandic language. He knew Dante probably better than any other American, in New York. Spanish literature delighted him, and he mastered it at odd moments.

For horses he had a passion, and he kept his health, he thought, by driving a high spirited team daily between his country place and the railway station. Mr. Dana was fond of good cooking and he knew wines like a connoisseur, although sparing in the use of them.

Mr. Dana was nearly 50 years of age before he began, of his own experience, to know the future of wealth. When he went to The Tribune as managing editor his salary was $12 a week, and he was 45 years of age before he had received more than $50 a week.

The royalties on his book of household poetry and upon Appleton's encyclopedia brought him a larger income than that, although this money came to him mostly after he became editor of The Sun. In 1870, Mr. Dana received a salary of $50,000 a year from The Sun and had some dividends upon the stock, a majority of which he controlled.

In his private life Mr. Dana was one of the most charming of men to meet. He would have made a fine orator had he chosen to speak very much. He loved fun and reveled in humorous anecdotes, and when he had heard three or four and was asked how he kept himself so young he replied that he did it by keeping up his love for fun, living in the present, eight hours' sleep and a good table.

ARRIVED FROM ALASKA

Several Gold Hunters Give Up the Grand Rush.

THE GOAL WAS NOT REACHED

One Man Died of Exhaustion While Out Locating Claims Which He Expected Would Have Made Him Independent.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 18.—The steamer Danube has arrived 10 days from St. Michaels. She brought 32 passengers, most of them men who failed to reach the mines by the all-water route. Some got as far as Fort Yukon and had to turn back. There are 12 miners from Circle City, who bring about $72,000 in gold dust. Most of them have been working around Circle City, but a few are interested in the Klondike.

A lot of provisions are at Fort Yukon, but it is feared that if there is a rush from Dawson it will cause a shortage further down the river. It is probable that many men will perish in the attempt to escape from starvation by coming down the river.

Steamer P. B. Weare, after being on a sand bar two days, got off the bar, and arrived at St. Michaels September 20. She started up again with a load of freight, but it is feared she will never get up the river.

The steamer Alice arrived at St. Michaels September 24 with 120 miners and after starting up again on the 27th ran aground at the mouth of the river. The steamer Mare Island and Merwin tried to get up but failed. The Merwin and Alice, at last accounts were on a bar and freezing up.

Mare Island had returned to Stebbins, 12 miles from St. Michaels. Few men with very little gold were at St. Michaels when the Danube left, and they will all come down on the Bertha.

The North American Transportation and Trading company will build their river steamer at Unalakleet, on account of the steamer Huemul having been lost in Unalakleet. Five other river steamers are to be built at St. Michaels.

Ice was in the upper river when the Weare started down and icebergs were a foot long on her when she reached St. Michaels. The steamers Bertha, Cleveland, Portland, Excelsior, Bear and Iakame were at St. Michaels when the Danube left, also the schooner Kahla.

Passengers who started up the river on the steamers were endeavoring to get to St. Michaels overland. The steamer Healy, which, with a barge, was loaded at St. Michaels, unloaded when the news came from Stebbins. The Excelsior and steam schooner Navarre, with a tow, arrived at St. Michaels on Oct. 3.

H. B. Tucker of Troy, N. Y., died of exhaustion on the trail a few miles from Rampart City. He and a friend started out at night with little food to locate claims on Hoosier creek. They spent two days and nights in the woods and then turned back. Tucker fell from exhaustion. His friend went for assistance, but when it arrived Tucker was dead.

Of the men who reached St. Michaels recently most of them have been working for wages in the vicinity of Circle City. There was not $100,000 in the whole crowd, so that the rest of the boats this fall will bring very little treasure.

There is considerable talk among the men who failed to get in of taking action against the steamship companies which took them up, particularly against the owner of the Eliza Anderson. Of a thousand odd men who started since July, not one-third are miners. Some are still at Fort Yukon, hoping to get in early in the spring, but a large majority are coming south.

Some of the men who reached Circle City on the steamer Hamilton will try to push on to Dawson over the Yukon. No news comes from Dawson.

Another Victim Dead.

Cincinnati, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Kate White, one of the injured in the Robinson Opera House accident last Friday night, is dead. Two others of the injured are in a critical condition, but with hopes of pulling through. The accident has affected the attendance at theaters so seriously that the managers have called a meeting to petition the city building inspector and state inspector of buildings to examine and report on condition of their respective theaters.

Shot by Her Lover.

Faircloth, Ga., Oct. 18.—Miss Hurst, the beautiful 16-year-old daughter of Planter J. B. Hurst, was shot and killed with a pistol by her lover, Mack Lewis. The young couple were out for a drive and, according to Lewis' statement, stopped to practice pistol shooting at a target. In taking the cocked revolver from Lewis' hands it exploded.

Loved His Sister-in-Law.

Marietta, O., Oct. 18.—Frederick Joy is under arrest charged with being the father of his sister-in-law's child. Miss Nancy Lee, the mother is charged with perjury first having sworn Joy was not the father of her child and later making affidavit that he was.

Wiped Out by Fire.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 18.—The town of Windsor, the seat of Iliquo County, 35 miles from this city was wiped out by fire. Buildings in the town were left standing and 5,000 people are homeless. The loss is estimated at $3,000,000.

A Man of Action.

In a provincial town three men were in love with the same girl, the elderly widower foolishly, the unimpeachable younger son passionately, the curate zealously.

The elderly widower, who had four children, talked to her about the advantages of a comfortable income and maternal duties. The unimpeachable younger son raved about romantic marriages and the picturesque side of poverty. The curate ate buttered toast and lisped on indifferent subjects.

The girl listened to the elderly widower with a demure smile and a coy blush. She sat with clasped hands and a burning face, eagerly drinking in the unimpeachable younger son's flights of imagination. While the curate cooed she knitted red petticoats for paupers.

The elderly widower proposed. His tone was moderate, his language dignified. He bade her pause and reflect. The two most desirable things in the world was in his power to offer her—a Christian home and a ready-made family.

She thanked him with tears in her eyes and took a week to think it over.

The unimpeachable younger son also proposed. He pleaded passionately, eloquently. Let her fly with him, he urged, to the uttermost ends of the earth, not a prosaic, inexpensive railway journey somewhere within reach, but a regular extravagant expedition to the antipodes, utterly beyond their means. He clasped her in his arms, and she sobbed upon his breast.

The curate married her.

It was a quiet wedding.—Pick Me Up

A City Set on a Hill.

The town of Ithaca overlooks a great extent of country, as well as the waters of Cayuga lake, which is about 40 miles long. In approaching the town one of the railroads makes many turns, and this fact has given rise to an amusing story.

A stranger, coming to Ithaca by rail, caught sight of the city set on a hill in the distance and asked a fellow passenger, "What city is that?"

"Ithaca," the other responded. In a few moments the city disappeared from view and after awhile appeared again, but as it seemed to the stranger, in a different direction, the railroad having made a curve.

"What city is that?" he asked again.

"That is Ithaca."

Once more the place disappeared and in due time came into view again, apparently somewhere else.

"What city is that?" he asked again.

"That is Ithaca."

The stranger gave a whistle and looked imploringly across the horizon.

"Where, for goodness' sake," said he, "ain't Ithaca?"—Youth's Companion.

Carving the Donkey.

A schoolboy was recently presented with a pocketknife, with which, boy-like, he cut and marked everything that came in his way, from the dining room table to the cat's tail. A few days after he had become the happy possessor of the knife his father was startled by seeing two men bringing home the young hopeful in a very dilapidated condition. The father, of course, was very much alarmed and inquired of the boy who had hit him.

"Nobody hit me," the boy answered between his sobs. "A donkey kicked me in the eye."

"Eh?" echoed the father. "Haven't I told you thousands of times that donkeys and powder are not fit things for boys to play with? What were you doing to the donkey?"

"I wasn't playin' with him at all," said the boy. "I was only tryin' to cut my name on his back."—Pearson's Weekly

Canned Foods.

The process of preserving ailments in tin had its origin in Nancy, France. In 1841 Joseph Colin of that town established an agency in London for the sale of tinned delicacies. Their cost compared to that of today reveals what has been accomplished in cheapening these products during the past 56 years. In 1841 a quart of turtle soup in tin put up by Colin cost $5.75; a small box of sardines, $1.25; an entire truffled salmon, $15; a beef tongue, $3; a Toulouse duck, truffled, $9. Vegetables were proportionately dear. Colin evidently carried his system much farther than is attempted at the present day. He sold in tin an entire sucking pig, for which he charged $12.50, six pounds of roast lamb for $4.25, and an entire pheasant for $12.50. He also preserved butter in tin, for which he asked 75 cents a pound.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your grocer to day to show you a sack of Grain-O! It is the best and most healthful place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as we have to add all the sugar to it. Grain-O is made from pure grain, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. A tin of Grain-O costs 15c and 25c per package sold by all grocers.

SOME DAY.

Come, sit with me, love, in the gleaming Of the night a flicker and dare! Of the night I'll drift to our dreaming Away from the trouble and care. And the night will be all in sorrow Forgetting tonight shall be As we talk of the glad tomorrow And the some day by and by.

Of the day of our hopes, belated, When I sit with the world's flame, And my thimble ship's decks are freighted With honey and gold and fame And all that is brightest and dearest In the wealth of the world's supply I'll bring to your feet, my dearest, In the some day by and by.

By blossom and bloom surrounded Our own little nest shall stand, The castle in clouds we founded, The home that our hearts have planned, Where never a shade of sadness Shall darken our sunset day, And life shall be joy and gladness In the some day by and by.

But if of our dear dream stories No tale of them all come true, And the sky of our grandest glories The sunset shall hide in view, Then, facing it, dear, together, With never a tear or sigh, We'll wait for the clearing weather And the some day by and by.

—Joe Lincoln in L. A. W. Bulletin.

Memory of Sleepwalkers.

The memory of sleepwalkers is occasionally prodigious under the influence of the dominating impulse that moves them. There is an instance of a poor and illiterate basket maker, who was unable to read or write, yet in a state of sleep he would preach fluent sermons, which were afterward recognized as having formed portions of discourses he was accustomed to hear in the parish church as a child more than 40 years before. Quite as strange a case of "unconscious memory" is referred to by Dr. Abercrombie. A girl given to sleepwalking in the habit of imitating the violin with her lips, giving the preliminary tuning and scraping and flourishing with the utmost fidelity. It puzzled the physician a good deal, until he ascertained that when a child she lived in a room adjoining a fiddler who often performed on his violin in her hearing.—Pearson's Weekly.

Pure, rich blood feeds the nerves. That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, cures nervousness.

The Morning Bath.

There is one point I should like to emphasize, and that is the good a tepid sponge bath every morning taken on getting out of bed may do a man out of sorts. If a person can take a cold sponge bath, so much the better, but a tepid sponge bath acts on the nervous system in a very decided manner, and I know of many persons who find it a very admirable means of preserving their health and tone. Of course the tepid bath can be taken all through the winter, even by those who are not accustomed to baths at all, but personally I prefer the cold sponge bath every morning, which is a capital tonic for those who have a good reaction after it. I do not think we value cold and tepid sponging as highly as we ought.—Dr. A. Wilson.

Domestic Joy.

The charm of domestic joy will be preserved, if those parents, who fear the early death of one of their loved ones when attacked with a serious throat or lung trouble, resort at once to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a never-failing remedy. "I used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for my son, who was eight years old. He has been troubled with a bronchial cough since he was two and a half years of age, and I have tried everything, but found Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup does him the most good." Mrs. A. Geib, 317 Demott St., West Hoboken, N. J. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup costs only 25 cents, and is cheaper than the dealer's big profit making substitute, because Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup always cures while the substitute does not.

What it Costs to Carry the Mail in America.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The annual report of W. S. Shallenberger, second assistant postmaster general, gives an interesting review of the principal developments in the entire postal transportation service of the United States and connecting foreign mails. It shows an aggregate of appropriations for this large part of the postal service for the current year of $51,041,233; the probable deficiency is $500,000, making year $51,541,233. The estimate for the fiscal year 1899 is $53,337,260.

The annual rate of expenditure for the inland mail service in the year just closed was $49,862,074, and for foreign mail service $1,791,110, after deducting $28,029 for intermediary service to foreign countries.

For star mail service the estimate for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, is $5,495,000.

Social Democracy Stirs Up a Lively Sensation in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—The session of branch No. 1 of the Social Democracy, the organization founded by Eugene V. Debs, ended in a general row, during which Mrs. Fannie Clark Kavanagh, president of the branch, was horsewhipped.

The whipping was done by Mrs. Thomas P. Quinn, wife of the former president of the recently expelled branch No. 2 of the Social Democracy, the trouble between the women growing out of the fact that Mrs. Kavanagh had charged Quinn with being a Pinkerton detective.

The male members of the organization promptly took part in the row when the assault on Mrs. Kavanagh began, and a riot was narrowly averted. Mrs. Kavanagh is said to have been badly disfigured.

Struck It Rich.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 18.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Lippy of Kinsman, a few miles north of here, have returned from a successful trip to the Klondike gold fields, to which place they went in April, 1896. Mr. Lippy affirmed the report that he had cashed in $65,000 worth of gold and had left a claim there worth $1,000,000. Mr. Lippy said he and his wife would return in March and remain through the "clean up" when they will again return to civilization.

THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY,

Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston, Philadelphia.

A city official of Elizabeth, N. J., consulted a physician in the country, where he was spending his vacation, about a chronic dyspepsia with which he had been a good deal troubled. It took the form of indigestion, the food not becoming readily assimilated. After prescribing for some time, the physician finally told him he would have to be treated for several months with a mild laxative and corrective—something that would gradually bring back his normal condition without the violent action of drastic remedies. A little later he sent to the Doctor a box of and wrote him what he understood the ingredients to be and the Doctor forthwith pronounced the formula a good one and just what was needed in the case.

Of what you will take for your cough or cold? Mr. W. H. Taylor, of This City, and Miss Belle Lhamon the happy couple.

A pretty home wedding was witnessed yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Lhamon, near Waynesfield, where at high noon their daughter, Miss Belle Lhamon, was united in marriage with W. H. Taylor, of this city. Rev. Yale, of Waynesfield, spoke the words that joined the happy couple for life.

Immediately after congratulations were extended by the many friends who were present, a wedding feast was served to ninety-one guests, including friends and relatives of the bride and groom. The afternoon was spent in a most social manner, and late last evening the happy couple, together with friends who had attended from Lima, arrived in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will make this city their future home. Those present at the wedding were: Messrs. D. B. Stoffer, A. Walker, J. Trunk, Miss B. Summers, Mrs. J. Lipter, Mrs. A. WILL ASSIST GEORGE.

Single Tax League of Kansas City Takes Action.

Kansas City, Oct. 18.—The local Single Tax league, at its regular meeting, has adopted resolutions endorsing the candidacy of Henry George, candidate for mayor of Greater New York, tending their support and forwarding a subscription to help defray the expenses of his campaign. The resolutions, presented by Henry S. Julian, a local Democratic leader, say, among other things:

"Resolved, That we, the friends and admirers of Henry George, and believers in Jeffersonian Democracy, in Kansas City, hereby tender to the supporters of the great cause in New York our most sincere sympathy in their great struggle for human rights and our ardent hopes for their success; and we hereby pledge ourselves to do all in our power to further said cause, morally and financially."

KILLED BY HIGHWAYMEN.

The Victim Resisted and Was Promptly Shot to Death.

Cleveland, Oct. 18.—While riding into Elyria on a Lake Shore freight train, Romain Operanski, whose home is in Pittsburg, was attacked by three highwaymen, who were also aboard the train. Operanski showed fight and as a result was shot, the ball entering the body between the fifth and sixth ribs. The highwaymen made their escape.

Operanski was brought to Cleveland and placed in the Huron Street hospital, where he died from his wound. The murderers are thought to be members of an organized gang which frequents the line of the Lake Shore railroad.

Plenty of Horses on Hand.

Louisville, Oct. 18.—Eight car loads of horses, the fastest harness performers to be found in America, have arrived at the track of the Louisville Driving and Fair association from Lexington, Ky. There are now quartered at the track nearly 400 horses, and 200 more are expected to arrive. S. R. Bawne, the driver of Robert J. and John R. Gentry, said that he would drive Gentry in the match race next Friday, and that Ed Geers would drive Robert J. The two great pacers will pace the best three in five heats.

Checked the Flow.

London, Oct. 18.—Thursday's advance in the bank rate to 3 per cent was not a surprise since £1,000,000 in gold had been withdrawn within a week, making £5,000,000 since June last. Gold continues in strong demand, but the withdrawal of eagles has been checked by the raising of the price to 76s 1½d per ounce. Higher rates and dearer money may be looked for.

Suspended Payments.

Charleston, Oct. 18.—C. C. Pinckney, manager and the holder of controlling interests in the Farmers' Mining company, the Wappono mills, the Horse Shoe mills and Magnolia Mining company, suspended payments on Saturday. According to best information obtainable, the liabilities are in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Brothers' Marry Sisters.

Voorhees, O., Oct. 18.—Charles W. Karch was wedded to Cora Belle Wolf and John Karch to Martha Wolf. The grooms are brothers and the brides sisters.

It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove that it is so.

Home endorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case: Mrs. O. A. Tery, of 132 N. Tanner St., says: "For eleven years I knew what kidney trouble was. Some years ago I was treated by Dr. Hadden, Corning, N. Y., and he brought me out of it, and I remained free from it until I went to live in Detroit. It came on me again and I returned to Corning to obtain the professional aid of Dr. Hadden, but I could not remain long enough to be benefited by his treatment, and after consulting a specialist in Elmira he said that I had Bright's disease in the second degree and he thought that I might live for some years, yet I never would be a well woman again. I returned to my home in the west discouraged. I did not cease to treat for this and employed physicians and resorted to advertised medicines without any relief. My mother wrote me from Corning, N. Y., to be sure and get Doan's Kidney Pills. They were performing cures in that section that were considered hopeless. She was confident that they would benefit me. No one had obtained them here then, but later I was able to get them from Melville's drug store, and I cannot express my thankfulness for what they did for me. The pain in my back, soreness over my kidneys and the urinary distress are too familiar to sufferers from kidney trouble to need describing. I was at times so swollen that I could not wear my clothes, and this bloating extended to my body as well as my limbs. I was in a very bad way when I procured them. But I can say that they have done this for me. I have no urinary trouble, I have no pain in my back, I can wear my clothes now and feel well in every way. I never had any medicine so satisfactory as Doan's Kidney Pills, and I cannot say sufficient for them as a kidney cure."

For sale by all dealers; price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

I. B. STEVEN.The candidacy of Hon. H. L. Chapman is appealing strongly to the common people of Ohio. A representative of the Enquirer who went among the neighbors of Mr. Chapman in Jackson county made some interesting discoveries as to the standing of the Democratic candidate in his own home. A great number of instances are related of the acts of the Democratic standard bearer showing the liberal and generous nature of this man. All the acts related occurred long before he ever thought of being a candidate for governor. Very often it happens that men do things when a candidate for public favor that they would not do otherwise. But Mr. Chapman, ever with an eye single to the good of his fellow creatures, planted himself firmly on the side of right in every contest between capital and labor. The correspondent went intoJackson county without the knowledge of the candidate and interviewed all he met as to the standing of Mr. Chapman. In one case he found a man who several years ago was in deep distress. He was a miner and only had what he worked for.
His wife and little ones were in the old country and he longed to have them with him. But his earnings were not sufficient to gratify his desires at the time he wished. He called on Mr. Chapman and stated his trouble. Without a word and without asking any security whatever Mr. Chapman went into his pocket and gave the man $200 to bring his wife and babies to this country.
This is given as an illustration of how Mr. Chapman "oppressed" labor. On another occasion he gave a man who was sinking a mine shaft for him $20 in gold because he had done the work so well that he wished to show his appreciation of the same. On another occasion when a miner was blacklisted, he appealed to Mr. Chapman to give him work to enable him to supply bread for his wife and family.
He stated to Mr. Chapman, however, that he was on the blacklist. Mr.
Chapman, in his usual robust and emphatic manner, replied that he permitted no blacklist in his mines and told the man to go to work.
This was another illustration of the manner in which the Democratic candidate "oppressed" labor.

A FINANCIAL GATECHISM.

Say, Mr. Goldbug, how much money have we in the U. S.?
We claim there is 1600 millions.
How much is that per capita?
About 22 dollars.Don't you think there ought to be more?What do you want with any more,
when according to our statement
there is only 5 per cent. of the business done with money and ninety-five per cent. with checks?Then if all the business of the country was done with money we would need twenty times 22 dollars per capita, wouldn't we?

I suppose so.

How much would that make the total amount?

About 32 billions.

How much would that be per capita?

About $44.

With that amount per capita the dollar would not sell for as much by 10 times as it does to-day, would it?

Well, I guess not.

Then the volume of money would have something to do with the price of products, would it?

I suppose so.

Then the man who now gets $1 for a day's labor would get 10 times that much more would he?

Well, yes.

And the farmer would get that much more for his wheat, corn, hay, etc., wouldn't he?Yes; but that would be against the man that labors for a living, as he would have to pay that much more for the wants of life. Isn't that true?Well, partly; he would have to pay more for what he bought. Before I answer the rest of your questions I would ask you if labor is all employed to day?

No, I guess not.

Is that that is employed getting the wages paid in 1873?

No, I think not.

Is it getting one half of what was paid then?I think it is, on an average; but wages are too high yet, so senator Elkins, of West Virginia, says, and he has given the matter much thought.Well, now, if the labor employed is getting one half the pay it did in 1873
what would be the average when you include the number of unemployed?That I cannot tell; but if we have to compete with foreign manufacturers it must be on the same level with the wages paid labor in Europe.Why do you want the labor of this country as poorly paid as that of Europe?So that we may be able to compete with them in their own market.

How can you manage to do that?

Material of all kinds costs them on an average of 50 per cent. more than ours. That will give us an average close on to 20 per cent. the advantage over them in their own market, unless they reduce the wages they are now paying labor.Do you mean that for all classes of our manufacturers?No; I mean our first-class establishments.

What do you mean by first-class?

I mean all that are controlled by trusts and combinations.This is the arrangement set under the gold standard.

Yes.

What if the people decide that silver shall be monetized and the volume of money made double the present amount?In that case we cannot compete only on a few articles.

Why?

Because wages will go up in this country.Then you acknowledge that with a small volume of money the profits are all on the side of money and that which is added to money in increasing its purchasing power is taken from what it represents, the products of labor?

Yes.

Under this system of money you have no labor to sell?

No.

You are buying labor?

Yes.

And want it at the lowest prices?

Yes.

You will admit that there is always two sides to every proposition?

Yes.

Then if the smaller the volume of money is an advantage to the money changer in buying labor and the products of labor, won't an increase in the volume of money decrease that advantage and give it to labor—the products of labor?

Yes.

Then the demand for money will be reduced and the demand for labor
be increased proportionately?

Yes.

Then all labor will be employed at wages increased in proportion to the increase in the volume of money?

Yes. I believe that is correct.

Then why did you say that an increase in the price of products would be against the laborer?Because he would have to pay more for the necessities of life.True, but he can sell all his labor, and at a much better price, and with steady employment he can afford to pay more and lay up a few dollars each year, and enjoy the increase in his income from his labor as well as the money dealer can his—while now labor is only partly employed, and these poorly paid, and the families of the unemployed suffering all the miseries of this life because there is no price offered for their labor.You admit then that for the benefit of all that it would be best to increase the volume of full legal tender money?Yes; but not to twenty times the present volume.No; there is no one asking that. I only wanted to show you that if our present volume only paid cash for one twentieth of the volume of business done and the 19-20ths were paid by checks—that according to this statement it would take nineteen times as much money to pay in money instead of checks. I don't for a moment agree that that statement is correct, for I know that my check won't go in any bank in Lima unless I have the money to meet it in the bank when presented for payment.What is wanted is to remonetize silver, with our mints open to free coinage. This would double our volume of coin money; then for our government to issue full legal tender paper money in sufficient quantity to do the business of the country and do away with our credit system, which is ruinous to the nation.Every voter who sells his time or labor in any way ought to vote for his own interest, and should not let prejudice or good wishes for any candidate interfere with his voting for a principle that will benefit all.

GEO. W. JAMES.

Lima, O., Oct. 16, '97.

IS THIS PROSPERITY?

The New York World last Sunday published an article illustrated on the subject of how 1,000 persons in that great city of banks and wealth expected to live this winter without eating. And yet this is the very city that turned a majority of 75,000 for McKinley and "sound money" in 1896.The city of New York was the very hot bed of plutocracy and "confidence" prosperity. And now we are told by the chief mouthpiece of the prosperity agents that in this city with its half million voters and a year after the election of a president who was to bring an era of marvelous prosperity, that 1,000 persons expect to live without eating this winter, and God only knows how many thousand more will only half live and freeze. The voters of Ohio have an opportunity this year to give an expression of opinion on this state of affairs. They can help the hungryand freezing of the metropolis by voting for Hon. H. L. Chapman and currency expansion. So long as there is but a single standard there will be hunger and suffering not only in the great cities of the land, but everywhere. If there are a thousand now in Greater New York, there will be many more thousands next year. Let the voter begin the work of redeeming the human race this year—here in Ohio—by electing Horace L. Chapman governor and a legislature to choose the right sort of a man to send to the senate instead of the millionaire plutocrat, Hanna.

Read from a reliable physician:

Dr. E. S. Burnham:
Dear Doctor:—I beg by this note to return to you my sincere thanks and grateful acknowledgments for the various benefits of SAN-JAK, which you were kind and generous enough to send me during my late illness, of inflammation of the bladder. SAN-JAK possesses wonderful properties, its soothing effect upon inflamed mucous surfaces is indeed remarkable, it won my confidence after a few doses, and deepened my faith and strengthened my opinion of its transcendent merit. I found relief from the keen and insupportable anguish caused by the tenacious cystitis, the most painful and disagreeable feature of bladder trouble. Your SAN-JAK should be in every drug store in the country, and its wonderful properties and curative powers should be known to every physician in this grand republic. Another feature in SAN-JAK is the agreeable and pleasant taste, very much like Angelica wine. When one suffers from weeks and months of inflammation and fluid extracts hourly which are nauseous, repulsive and abominable to take, he can turn with joy, gratitude, and smiling welcome to SAN-JAK as a messenger of relief, and a pleasant elixir to have within call.

Grippe Cured.
"Last winter I had a bad cold and severe cough. I was lame in every joint and muscle. I was sick and felt as though I was coming down with typhoid fever. It was no doubt a bad case of grippe. Mr. E. P. Budge gave me a bottle of Brazilian Balm, saying he was sure it would help me. The relief was almost instantaneous. It quickly stopped my cough and took the grippe with all the pains and soreness out of my system. I gave the balance of the 50-cent bottle to Mrs. Bishop Wiley for her daughter. It proved so beneficial that I never intend to be without it."—J. W. CURTIS, Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE BIGGEST LINER.

KAISER WILHELM DER GROSSE IS ALSO VERY FAST

Great Record Made by the New North German Lloyd Steamer—she is the swiftest of the sea. General Description of the Swift Leviathan.

The greatness of liners, the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse of the North German Lloyd line, on her maiden voyage fulfilled the prophecy of her builders, the Vulcan Shipbuilding company of Bremen, by beating the record from Southampton, which was 6 days and 31 minutes, and was held by the St. Paul of the American line.

The time of the great German scorcher, 5 days, 22 hours and 4 minutes, not only creates a new record on the Southampton route, but smashes all maiden records on any route, and imparts the supremacy of the Conarders Lucania and Campania as mistresses of the peaceful seas of commerce.

Her run of 564 knots, completed on the last day of the trip, exceeds by two knots the best westward daily run of the Conarders Lucania. This clearly indicates that it will not be long before the Lucania will be a back number.

The Kaiser covered 3,050 knots at an average hourly speed of 21.39 knots. There are bigger averages than that, but this was only a maiden trip.

On her magnificent day's run of 564 knots the Kaiser made an average of nearly 23 knots an hour, which is what her builders think she can sustain for a whole voyage. This means that she will beat the Lucania by about a knot an hour on a voyage, and that she will reduce the time from Southampton to five days and a half. She developed 30,000 horsepower on the trip, and her average daily consumption of coal was 500 tons.

Her steam pressure to the square inch was 186 pounds, and the average revolution of her screws was 77 to the minute. At certain hours on the trip the steam pressure was a trifle higher and the revolution of her propellers faster. That was notably so during the last eight hours, when her average speed was 23½ knots. She was bounding for home then, and the engineer representing her builders, who was bossing the trip down in the business part of the ship, knew what was expected of him.

The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse is the largest steamship that has been launched since the colossal Great Eastern left the ways. She is 645 feet long, or 81 feet shorter than the Great Eastern, and she measures 14,000 tons gross. The Great Eastern was only a single screw, and she made a freighter's time of about 19 knots. Nobody can tell yet the possibilities of the great German liner, which has already traveled at the rate of more than 23 knots, but that she will do somewhat better than the Campania and Lucania there is little doubt in the minds of her owners.

The Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse is the only liner with four funnels that has ever been in this or any other port. These are her dimensions: Length over all, 645 feet; beam, 66 feet; depth, 43 feet; tonnage, 14,000, and displacement, 20,000 tons. She has bilge keels on both sides of her hull, by which her tendency to roll is checked. The violent vibrations so often created by great engine power on ocean steamers will not be felt on her, as the engines are balanced by the Schlick system, by which the up and down motion of the ponderous masses is compensated, and the heaving motion of the engines so disagreeable to passengers and injurious to the vessel itself will be avoided.

The ship is divided into 16 transverse bulkheads, all extending to the upper deck, and by one longitudinal bulkhead in the engine room into 18 water tight compartments, so that even should three compartments fill the vessel could not sink. The four groups of boilers are each placed in a separate water tight compartment entirely divided from the others, so that in case of a collision the vessel would never be without steam to work her main engines or her pumps. This feature is an improvement on anything that has ever been attempted in this direction on passenger steamers.

The vessel has a double bottom that is divided into 22 subdivisions. In addition to these safety appliances, the Kaiser has 24 large lifeboats placed upon the aving deck, ready for immediate use. She has been built in accordance with the requirements of the Imperial German navy department and will in case of war be fitted with a large number of guns and enter the German naval service as a cruiser.

The ship is driven by two triple expansion engines having a combined horsepower of 30,000. Each works on four cranks with four steam cylinders, one behind the other, constructed by the Vulcan Shipbuilding company of Bremen, the builders of the hull. The diameter of the cylinders is as follows: High pressure cylinder, 52 inches; intermediate cylinder, 59½ inches; two low pressure cylinders, 96½ inches.

The two engines are separated by a water tight longitudinal bulkhead. The two three-bladed propellers measure 22 feet 3½ inches in diameter, with a pitch of 22 feet 10 inches. They are constructed of bronze, and each weighs 26 tons. The crank shafts and the screw shafts, which measure 21 inches in diameter, are made by Krupp of Essen of nickel steel. The length of the shafting is 192 feet. The two condensers have a cooling surface of 35,522 square feet, and the tubes in the condensers are 11,000 in number, comprising a length of 35 miles.—New York Sun.

RHEUMATISM

The Tender Passion.

I had a colored cook who was on the whole a very good servant. She had been "educated" in the public schools and could write by putting a copy book before her and picking out letter by letter those she wanted to use. This took a good deal of time, but she was sensible enough to choose her times so the practice was not as objectionable as with most of them, whose passion for letter writing is so great that it is indulged in at all times regardless of duty. One evening every one had gone out and Letty was left to lock the house and go home. I came home first and found on the sideboard an immense paper bag. I knew at once it must have been forgotten by Letty, who lived at a distance, and so thrust my hand in to see if there was anything in it to spoil. Fruit and cakes were in it, but my hand encountered a box such as jewelers sell fine rings in. I opened it, of course, to know if it contained any valuables. A portion of her hair had been soaked in perfumed grease and braided fine and tight to the length it could be stretched, tied with blue ribbon and coiled ring shape. It rested on a piece of paper, on which was written, "My dearest, I send you a lark of my hair and let not any one else lay the weight of their finger upon it." I read no further in the love note, shut and put back the box, but that "lark of hair" was an interesting proof how much alike human nature is in "all sorts and conditions of men," and women too.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Sad Part.

A lady who has been away from the city for a long while, and who during her absence received the sad news of the death of the husband of one of her intimate friends, upon her return hastened to call upon the bereaved widow to extend her sympathy and condolence.

"My dear —, I am so sorry to hear of your husband's death," said the lady with a suspicious break in her voice, "and you know, dear, how much I sympathize with you."

"Yes, I know you do. It is awful to have your husband taken away, and he did not leave me a cent of insurance either," said the widow, bursting into tears.—Toledo Blade.

A Dame School in England, 1837.

On a perch, forming a triangle with the corner of the room, sat a cock and two hens. Under a stump bed immediately beneath was a dog kennel in the occupation of three black terriers, whose barking, added to the noise of the children and the cackling of the fowls on the approach of a stranger, was almost deafening. There was only one small window, at which sat the teacher, obstructing three-fourths of the light it was capable of admitting.—Parliamentary Report.

Patent Cow For Hunters.

A Nebraska man has invented a patent cow for hunters. The invention presents the perfect outward semblance of a most peaceable and amiable cow, but the fore legs and hind legs are in fact the two pairs of legs of two men. They are armed with guns and have a plentiful supply of ammunition. The patent cow moves along like an ordinary harmless animal until it is in the midst of a lot of birds, when it comes open and the two men inside blaze away. Formed in the sides of the frame, at suitable points, are windows or openings protected by outward swinging flap blinds, and through these windows the sportsman in the rear may discharge his fowling piece when the game has been successfully stalked. For the firing of the hunter in the front of the decoy there is provided a downward swinging portion, which includes the head and neck of the animal, so that by simply releasing a small catch from the inside of the framework this releases the swinging front portion, which immediately drops by gravity and thus leaves the sportsman free.—Boston Transcript.

STORAGE OF GRAIN.

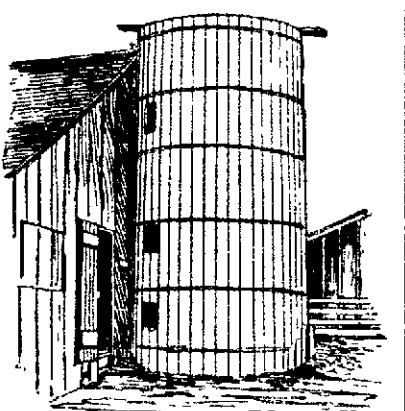

How to Protect It from Weevils, Fly Moths and Rats and Mice.

After traveling with sometimes the grain is hauled directly to the station for shipment, sometimes to the mill, sometimes to the inland elevator, and the methods vary commonly prevail where the grain crop is large. In Kansas, for instance, during the recent harvest it was no uncommon thing to see the self binder, the thrasher and the plow all running at once in the same field and at the same time teams hauling loads of wheat direct from thrasher to mill or market, and this is very commonly done where the grain crop is grown on a large scale. But on many farms storage of grain is quite common, and it needs to receive attention in order that loss may be prevented, and in this connection the Iowa Homestead gives the following advice: If the bins or granaries have been used before, they should be made thoroughly clean preparatory to filling them. It is especially important to see that they contain no insect pests that prey upon stored grain. There are several species of weevil which infest granaries, as well as the fly moth, which not only attacks the grain in store, but occasionally deposits its eggs on the grain in the field. A few of these often survive, and the pest is thus introduced into even clean quarters in this way, and while there are but two annual broods normally, after the grain is stored in a warm place there are often considerably more than two broods, and the increase is very rapid. Besides the ordinary methods of cleaning granaries, it is a good idea to close them up tight and evaporate carbon bisulphide in them, which will destroy all insect life that may remain in them.

Another class of vermin to be guarded against is rats and mice, and special precautions to this end should be taken in constructing the place of storage. It is much better to have it at some little distance from other buildings, raised from the ground on posts, the tops of the posts being covered with inverted pans made of galvanized sheet iron in order to prevent the rats climbing in. Doors should close quite tight, and any openings that are left for ventilation should be covered with fine gauze to keep out the weevil insect and the moth. It is worth while to pay a good deal of attention to the details of storage, for it is always attended with some waste, and the waste may be easily large if done carelessly.

After the grain has been stored it should be examined occasionally in order to see whether it is being attacked by any destructive insect which may have gained access to the granary in spite of the precautions taken. If any of these pests are found, an immediate application of bisulphide of carbon is the proper remedy. Never use this remedy, however, without remembering the inflammability of its gases. No artificial light or fire of any kind should be permitted where it is being used, and its fumes, if inhaled, are quite poisonous.

high which gives entire satisfaction. This silo is placed two feet below the surface. In such a case pieces of old lumber should be put around the outside to prevent the earth, banked up to shed surface water, from coming in contact with the staves. The boards were removed from the front when the photo was taken. When commencing to fill do not be alarmed if you can see through the cracks. The damp sunlight will swell and the cracks will be tight in 24 hours. Beware of knotholes or places in the edge of the boards that do not fit. Tack a piece of paper over them. Try the hoops after the silo is filled a few days, and if too tight, loosen the nuts, or these is danger of bursting the hoops. The only thing required is the earth itself. It should be banked a little on the inside to keep the air from coming in under the planks.

It is advised in building any kind of a silo to get as much as the depth situation will permit (up to 35 feet, and thence by reduce the surface exposure as much as possible. It should not be less than 20 feet. The following table, according to Prairie Farmer, will give the capacity near enough for practical purposes. It is safe to estimate 50 cubic feet per ton and 4½ tons for each animal during winter.

Win a Place on the Australian Ballot.

THE FORAKERITES BEATEN

At Every Turn and They Are Thrown Down and Walked Upon by Their Victorious Foes—A Sick Lot of Mr. Leaders.

Perhaps the most disgusted lot of politicians who ever submitted to inglorious defeat are the Forakerites of Lima and Allen county, since the ruling of Secretary of State Kinney gave their people no place on the ballot to be voted next month. They have all along felt that they were not having an equal chance for recognition in their contest for the reason that Hanna owns and controls the entire party machinery in the state. Still they have fought the matter to the last ditch and it was not until Saturday night that they gave up hope. Then very reluctantly the Foraker organ in this city hoisted the Hanna ticket, after having fought two months for the privilege of putting up the Foraker ticket. This determination was only made after president Feltz, of the Board of Elections, received the following telegram at about 6 o'clock Saturday evening:

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 16, 1897.
Geo. Feltz, Lima, Ohio:
Have decided in favor of ticket headed by Johnson. See letter Monday.

CHARLES KINNEY,
Secretary of State.

The telegram did not create even a ripple of surprise among the Republican brethren. The Hanna people had all along insisted that they would win; they claimed that they had the same sort of a clinch on the state organization that they have on the federal offices to be distributed throughout the county, and that they did not intend to let the Foraker people have even a smell of the good things which the Republican pie container contained. And the Forakerites, while they hoped it might not be true, felt that it was very probable that the claims of the Hannaites were only too well founded.

When the fatal telegram arrived, shattering the Foraker hopes and announcing the success of the Hanna people, the defeated crowd received it with proper humility and at once abandoned all hopes of being recognized again in things political. The leaders advised their organ to hoist the enemy's ticket and the names of persons so odious to the Forakerites will now stare them in the face until election time.

The principal advantage which will accrue to the Hannaites in the decision is in the bearing that it will have upon the matter of the postoffices in this county, including Lima. The victorious Hannaites now insist that no one has a ghost of a chance for any of the offices unless they are time-tried and fire-tested admirers and henchmen of Marcus the Fat.

At three o'clock this afternoon the letter from the secretary of state, alluded to in the telegram, which will contain the reasons which the secretary of state wishes to go to the public as stating why he turned down the Foraker ticket, had not arrived.

A CONTRACT,

As Proposed by the Committee, Will be Submitted

TO THE CITY COUNCIL.

And if Approved Will be Submitted to the D. & L. N. Railroad Company, Pending an Adjustment of the Injunction Suit.

The meeting held in the office of mayor Baxter Saturday evening in the interest of the Detroit & Lima Northern shops project, as announced in the TIMES-DEMOCRAT Saturday, was attended by mayor Baxter, Messrs. McVey, Harmon, Stephens, Miller and Chapin, of the city council, and judge T. D. Robb, of the citizens' committee in charge of arrangements pertaining to the project. Mayor Baxter announced the object of the meeting, and the matter was discussed at some length by all present. A form of contract to be entered into by the city of Lima and the D. & L. N. railroad company had been prepared by judge Robb, C. A. Metheny and J. O. Ohler, of the citizens' committee, and this was submitted and read by mayor Baxter. The latter stated that there was a gleam of hope that the action brought by the Pennsylvania company to enjoin the city from issuing the proposed park bonds might be amicably adjusted, and he wanted the form of contract submitted to the city council, and, if found satisfactory, approved, and then submitted to the D. & L. N. company for its approval, so that in case the Pennsylvania company's action is adjusted the contract may be promptly entered into.

THE CONTRACT.

The form of contract submitted by Messrs. judge Robb, J. O. Ohler and C. A. Metheny provides articles of agreement by and between some person to be appointed trustee, representing the citizens of Lima, and the railroad company. The agreement, as stated, is that the trustee pay to the D. & L. N. the sum of $65,000, and, in consideration of that sum, the D. & L. N. agrees to proceed, without unnecessary delay, to erect and equip, upon grounds owned or acquired by them within the corporate limits, the sole construction and principal repair shops for the present line of that railroad and such lines as may hereafter be acquired, and the company will be required to fully equip, man and operate the shops to the extent necessary for the purposes of the road. The railroad company shall perpetually maintain and operate the shops, shall not remove the shops or the equipment and in case of a failure upon the part of the railroad company to fulfill the agreements of the contract the money will be forfeited. One of the last clauses in the contract provides that the shops shall be constructed within one year after the money is paid over by the citizens' trustee.

The members of the council who were present at the meeting expressed themselves as being fully satisfied with the terms of the proposed contract. The contract will be submitted to the city council tonight for approval.

THREE CARS OFF.

Wreck on the L. E. & W. at Fremont To-day.

WRECK CREW CALLED OUT.

Accident on the C. H. & D. Near Dayton—Conductors Kidenour and Johnson to Go to Indianapolis—Other Railway News.

At 11:45 o'clock to-day, as west bound local freight train No. 111, of the L. E. & W., was leaving Fremont, three cars became derailed and before the train was stopped one of them was overturned. The track was blocked and the wreck train and crew was sent from here in charge of conductor Mike Deneen and engineer Henry Dean. The local freight was in charge of conductor Thomas Strohl, engineer John Tarbutton, with engine 93.

HIT A MEAT WAGON.

This morning as north bound passenger train No. 6, of the C. H. & D., due here at 12:25 o'clock p. m., was spinning along just north of Dayton, the engine, in charge of engineer Patrick Doolin, of this city, struck a butcher's wagon at a road crossing. The rear end of the wagon was wrecked and its contents strewn along the track for some distance. The horse and its careless driver escaped without being injured.

GO TO INDIANAPOLIS.

A. N. Ridenour and A. M. Johnson, who were recently dismissed from the service of the L. E. & W., will go to Indianapolis shortly and lay their cases before general superintendent D. S. Hill in an appeal from the action of division superintendent Kramer. In case they are not reinstated through their own efforts some of the local railroad organizations will probably take some hand in the matter.

NOTES.

Jim Barlett, of the C. H. & D. shops, is visiting in Troy.

Supt. Floeter, of the C. H. & D., left for Toledo this morning.

The L. E. & W. employes received checks for their September salaries Saturday evening.

A BLESSING

For People With Limited Means.

At this season of the year, when everybody, the rich and poor alike, are compelled to buy heavier clothes to keep off the severe blasts of an approaching winter, nothing could have come so opportune as the announcement of the Union Clothing Co. to close out a great part of its stock of suits, overcoats, pants, underwear caps, etc., etc., in order to gain room for the enlargement of its store for the purpose of adding a shoe department.

The prices quoted in another column of this paper give but an imperfect idea of the reductions the Union is making on everything in the store. Of all the LUMBERMAKERS' sales that have ever taken place in Lima, none have attracted wider attention in so short a time as this sale of the Union. It is not an exaggeration when we say that during the past three days the Union has been crowded with customers from morning until closing time and none went away dissatisfied. The feast of bargains will last for some weeks for the stocks are immense, and before the builders can commence work a great deal of room has to be made.

For people with small means this is indeed a rare chance; at the same time those who want the best and the latest novelties can buy them at the Union at the same liberal reductions.

Where Will You
Have the Wool?

Over Your Eyes
Or On Your Back?

You can be accommodated with either nearly at all times in Lima. There are two kinds of Clothing sold in Lima. One kind needs a "sale" of some kind, either "bankrupt," "fire," "water," or any other title. The other is a class that don't need "fake sales." It sells in a regular legitimate business way. It's the kind that WE sell. It's the kind that has the wool in it. It's the kind our customers can depend on. They were not made in eastern penitentiaries either, but by the best manufacturers in this country. If you are one of the unsuspecting kind and are looking for a "green goods" man who offers gold dollars for 50c go to the other stores. If you want straight legitimate methods with a guarantee of your money's worth or your money back, go to
